Changes the requirements for background screenings of long-term care professionals

This act modifies, as of September 30, 2012, provisions relating to background screenings for long-term care workers and provisions relating to the Family Care Safety Registry. New definitions for "long-term workers" and "long-term care providers" are included in the act to replace "elder care workers" and "elder-care providers".

As of September 30, 2012, the Family Care Safety Registry shall contain information on long-term care workers and all workers under the registry shall be checked through the National Sex Offender Public website. Also, after that date, the registry shall include a check of the certified nurse assistant registry, the nursing home administrator disciplinary action data, and the licensing data of medical and osteopathic physicians, physician's assistants and nurses. The registry shall also check the educator certification data maintained by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The Department of Health and Senior Services shall operate as the single state agency which shall coordinate the criminal background screening process and the employment eligibility determination process. Prior to the date of hire, the department shall make a determination of eligibility based on the results of the prospective employee's self-disclosure background information, completion of the Family Care Safety Registry background screening and submission of state and federal fingerprint-based criminal record check within 30 days of hire and prior to having direct access to patients or residents. The applicant shall not be eligible for employment if disqualifying findings are revealed under the criminal background screening process.
