Modifies provisions related to hearing instruments

This act defines the term "consumer support provider" as it relates to hearing disability issues. It statutes that individuals certified as having some type of hearing disability will be referred to a "consumer support provider" for services. It changes the definition of hearing aid to include "that can provide more than fifteen decibel full-on gain via a two cc coupler at any single frequency from two hundred through six thousand cycles per second" and provides a more detailed definition of "Practice of fitting hearing instruments" to the definitions within the legislation. The act increases the number of individuals on the MO Board of Examiners for Hearing Instrument Specialists to seven individuals.
